Results Recap

Tuesday saw the two main Mixed events come to a finish. The Gumby-Lazer Mixed Teams Final was played out over 56 Boards, and the winners by 8.4 IMPs were the Watkins Team over the van der Vlugt team.

There is a write-up of some hands later in the Bulletin.

The Gerda Stern Mixed Pairs event finished today as well with Pauline Gumby and Warren Lazer winning the event by 6.6 VPs over Julian Foster and Jenna Gibbons. These two pairs played each other in the final round, and Pauline and Warren won the last match comfortably with a 60.1% match.

David Stern presents the Gerda Stern Mixed Pairs Runners-Up Julian Foster and Jenna Gibbons their certificate and medallions.

The Raceday Swiss IMP Pairs was run today, with the winners Jimmy Wallis and Kevin Steffensen. Jimmy is known for his fast pace of play, so it is only fitting that he won this event. Denise Barnes & Hamid Sadigh were second by a few VPs but comfortably ahead of third.

Heath Watkins West opened 1♠, and had an uncontested auction to 2♠, with South not willing to bid anything over East's 1NT response. At the other table, George Kozakos opened the West cards with a more conservative 2♠. After two Passes, South overcalled 2NT and North raised to 3NT.

On the Jack of Spades lead, Declarer Zachary had 8 tricks available, but tried to make it by crossing to Dummy to lead a Heart towards the King. When that lost, 3NT was down by 5. 7 more IMPs to van der Vlugt.

Heath Watkins passed and made 2♠.

George Kozakos bid 2NT to ask if partner had raised with only three trumps, and when he knew it was a nine-card fit bid 4♠ and made it. 10 IMPs to van der Vlugt.

Both tables started with the auction 1♥ by West, pass, 4♥ by East. Over to South.

Zachary Yan passed 4♥, and it made 11 tricks.

Maurits van der Vlugt tried 4♠ which looks pushy, but shape is everything in these auctions, so a six-card suit and a void are great reasons to try bidding.

West Doubled 4♠ and when the dust settled Maurits was down by 4 and 12 IMPs back to Watkins.

Both North's opened 1♥, both East's overcalled 1NT.

Zachary Yan Doubled for Penalties with the South cards and Jodi Tutty was -500.

Maurits van der Vlugt didn't Double, and Kate MacDonald drifted down by one trick for -100 and 9 IMPs to Watkins.

Heath opened the West cards and managed to stop partner from bidding too high after finding the Heart fit.

North led the King of Spades, and Heath won the Ace and played a Diamond to the Ace and a low Diamond, ruffed and over-ruffed.

He managed to establish the Diamonds and get back there to make his contract, score a Beer Card, and earn 11 IMPs.

Watkins was up by 0.4 IMPs at lunch.

George Kozakos received the two of Diamonds lead, and won the Ace, the winning play is to lead a low Diamond next, trump it, and get overtrumped. This allows you to ruff another Diamond, and eventually establish them.

George played a Heart, and could no longer make it.

Both East-West pairs played in 3NT, one by East and one by West.

Zachary Yan was South against Jodi Tutty Declaring from West. He knew that there were three Heart stoppers, so attacked Clubs in the mid-game and eventually established some tricks for North.

Maurits van der Vlugt was South and could see West as Dummy, so couldn't be sure how the Hearts were distributed. He kept playing Hearts, which allowed Declarer time to win establish four Diamonds, a Spade and a Club, to go with their three Heart tricks.

Heath Watkin's "ultra modern" preempt backfired slightly here.

Hand repeated for convenience.

On a Club lead, there is a careful line of play that makes.

After losing the Club, gain the lead, play the Ace of Spades and a Spade towards the King. If South ruffs, you don't lose another Spade, since you can draw trumps, and play the King then ruff a Spade.

If South doesn't ruff, you can win the King, and lead a Spade (losing) and then ruff a Spade with the Ace (then draw trumps).

Heath didn't find this delicate line, and was down by one.

Maurits van der Vlugt (West) found exactly this line of play. South did ruff the second Spade, but since North had led a Club at trick one had no entry for another ruff.

The van der Vlugt team gained 14 IMPs, because not only did Maurits make 11 tricks, he was also playing in 4♥ Doubled for +990.

Watkins was in the lead by 4.4 IMPs with 4 boards to go, which were mostly all flat, except for a small pickup to Watkins.

Watkins won 109 to 100.6 IMPs. Congratulations!

Useful Conventions With Will – Two Over One

One great guideline for bidding that applies in a lot of circumstances, but especially in Two-Over-One auctions is the principle of Fast and Slow Arrival.

If both players know that you are in a Game Forcing auction, getting there immediately is weaker (often it is a jump straight to game). Taking it more slowly and showing a fit suggests a stronger hand.

2♥	P	4♥*	P

*4♥: Most people use a jump straight to game in a Game Forcing auction as a minimum hand. The weakest 10-25% of hands. No Aces. Weak trumps. Minimum points.

There are some auctions in Two-Over-One where you arrive at the three-level and either player could still be anywhere from 12 – 19 points!

If your hand is a little better than minimum you possibly need to make a slam try (or cooperate if partner does).

One useful convention is that if we have agreed a Major suit fit in a Two-Over-One auction, then bidding 3NT shows a hand that is better than minimum, but not seriously interested in a slam.

This is called the Non-Serious 3NT. (I call it the “frivolous 3NT” but the name isn’t catching on).

If partner bids the Non-Serious 3NT and you have a minimum, or slightly better, you can sign off in Game. Otherwise, make a Control Bid or ask for Keycards.

If you play the Non-Serious 3NT convention and don’t use it, but instead you make a Control bid, or bid 4NT, it shows a hand that is Seriously interested in slam. Partner should cooperate 95% of the time.

North-South arrive in 3♥, with a Heart fit, but neither player really knows how many points their partner has. North showed a bit better than a minimum hand for their slower arrival bidding. South could have anything from 12 or 13 up.

South might utilise the 3NT (Non-Serious) Convention. South has 16 points, so is not completely interested in slam, but a bit too good to stop in game.

North has a great hand for slam, and a decent hand in the context of the bidding, so asks for Keycards.

If North had a hand not so useful for slam, they would simply bid 4♥ over 3NT.

North-South might also use Control bids to express slam interest.

North could possibly have Splintered 4♣ on their second bid as well.

There are usually a lot of different ways to bid slam-going hands.

The Play (6♥ by South):

There are possible losers in Spades, Diamonds and Clubs, but the Long Spade suit can be established to discard the other things once trumps are drawn.

Bridge Trivia

Alongside the Swiss Pairs event today, Convenor Shannon created some bridge trivia. Give them a go!

No answers provided. You are on your own!

1. A way of informing the opponents that partner's call carries a meaning they might not expect.
2. A bid made when it was another player's turn to bid
3. A statement by declarer about how the remaining unplayed tricks will be won or lost without playing them.
4. A playing technique in suit contracts, where extra tricks are gained by ruffing in both hands alternately.
5. To play a card that is neither of the suit led, nor trump, and that therefore cannot win the trick.
6. A play technique in which a player does not immediately play a card that might take a trick, but plays a small card instead.
7. A bid that is not higher than the immediately preceding bid
8. A trick taken by declarer beyond the number of tricks required by the contract.
9. A discussion of a hand, and the nature of the result, after the play has concluded.
10. A contract that was deliberately bid in the expectation of going down, in the hope of a penalty smaller than the opponents' expected score from making a contract they had bid
11. To mix the cards
12. Improper communication between partners, effected by words, gestures, or facial expressions.
